CHALLENGE:

A Title I STEM magnet school sees the need to boost literacy.

With a strong STEM-focused curriculum including programs in engineering, Margate Middle School recognized that it needed a tool that would boost student vocabulary and promote progress toward literacy goals. They looked for a resource that would be engaging enough for kids to play at home and during free time, but robust enough to have a meaningful impact on students' language ability.

According to Principal Earnest Toliver, Margate MS strives to be "on the cutting edge of 21st-century learning" in order to provide the most effective educational technology for a high-needs student population. The school sought a solution to their literacy needs that fit with this educational philosophy and helped to motivate students toward success.

SOLUTION:

Margate uses Vocabulary.com to spark competitive word-learning.

After a one-month trial, Margate MS subscribed to the Vocabulary.com Educator Edition in the spring of 2015, incorporating Vocabulary.com into the school's curriculum. Teachers challenged students to master as many words as they could in Vocabulary.com's interactive play, in order to compete on the statewide and national Vocabulary Bowl leaderboards.

As Principal Toliver told Margate News in a story celebrating the school's success with vocabulary learning, achieving mastery allows students to "fully understand all applications of the word." Toliver added that Vocabulary.com is "an academic game where they can apply what they learn in school," but it is also addictive and fun. "The kids get really excited about Vocabulary.com," he said.

RESULTS: Students achieve word-learning success and garner local media attention.

The competition lit a fire in students' play. In April 2015, a month after students began using Vocabulary.com, Margate had already powered its way to the top of the Florida leaderboard and earned a fourth-place finish in the nation with nearly 20,000 words mastered.

Once Margate students began playing Vocabulary.com — and saw their success reflected on the Vocabulary Bowl leaderboards — they began playing during free time in school, at lunch, and at home. Margate News called out competition between Margate and "a nearby nemesis," quoting Principal Toliver as saying, "Lauderdale Lakes Middle is dying to beat us, but they're not going to beat us."

The benefits have gone beyond boosts to students' academic vocabulary knowledge. A profile of Margate's achievements on the local television news station NBC 6 South Florida noted that Margate "tends to be overshadowed by its larger neighbors, Coral Springs and Pompano Beach." When Margate students see themselves successfully competing against local and statewide competitors on an even playing field, they can begin to believe that anything is possible. The NBC 6 profile singled out Margate's performance on the Vocabulary Bowl leaderboards as "an example of how the students here strive for excellence."

CONCLUSION: After students get a taste of success, their impressive word-learning achievements continue.

Not only are students beating expectations for word learning, Margate continues to excel on the Vocabulary Bowl leaderboards. In the 2015-16 school year, the school consistently places at or near the top of the Florida leaderboard and among the top ten nationwide, competing against approximately 16,000 other schools.

The students' initial success has motivated them to climb to even greater heights, and the school has publicized their achievements to the local community. In line with recommendations made in the Vocabulary.com PR toolkit, Margate parlayed word-learning achievements into local media coverage. Margate News ran an article in September 2015 under the headline "Margate Middle Tops State and Nation in Vocabulary Bowl," and the local NBC affiliate trumpeted the school's Vocabulary Bowl success in a January 2016 feature titled, "Brag About Margate." Margate also proudly announced news of its state leaderboard victory on the school website.

By challenging their students to competitive word-learning, and celebrating their achievements with the local community, Margate has used Vocabulary.com to build a thriving culture of success within the school.

The students of Lauderdale Lakes Middle School love Vocabulary.com. Students were spurred on to enhance their vocabulary by the friendly competition that the Vocabulary.com platform provided. Then a beautiful butterfly effect ensued, a contagion for learning. It was not uncommon for students to be up in the wee hours of the night playing Vocabulary.com and simultaneously broadening their vocabulary and comprehension skills. Vocabulary.com proved to be a true asset to our educational resources.

To Whom It May Concern,

I had the pleasure of implementing Vocabulary.com while I was working at Pompano Middle last year. It is a great program to help students' deepen their knowledge with regards to vocabulary. The student's really enjoyed the competition and games that were included. The teachers also enjoyed facilitating the program and the access that was afforded for students to complete assignments at home.

I would love to have the opportunity to implement here at my new school.
