Project Description	Code.org is a national non-profit organization dedicated to expanding computer science (CS) programs with curricula established for K-12. The contract will provide funding to support computer science professional development and supporting activities. The Applied Learning Department aims to train every CS professional at every school in the Code.org curriculum as part of its mission to bring CS coursework and career skills to every student.
Evaluation Plan	This project focuses on professional development for K-12 teachers.
Research Methodology	Research shows that studying programming may help develop problem-solving skills and better prepare students for a technology filled world. According to Roxanne Emadi, a strategist at Code.org; "Even if it's something simple, like a kid programming a maze or programming a robot, when you can see your work brought to life, that's where light bulbs go off." (NY Times, Gardiner 2014).
Alignment with Strategic Plan	All activities in this grant are aligned to District Strategic Plan Goal 1: High-Quality Instruction (College and Career Readiness) as the program encourages teachers to integrate science, technology, engineering, and mathematics instruction with practical experience as well as increases students' college and career preparedness.
Level of Support provided by GAGP	Level 3 - GAGP staff worked with the department to communicate with the funder, revise the agreement for legal approval, and secure the vendor's signature. GAGP also prepared the executive summary for the board agenda and will maintain the grant file.
