Vivian Shlesinger-Fulop/Live Concerts	Ocean of Hope The Story of WWII Heroine and Poet, Hannah Senesh	Social Studies/Language Arts/Theater/Music	9-12	A musical journey to the life of poetess and World War II freedom fighter Hannah Senesh. Soprano and Composer Vivian Fulop performs 11 songs based on the autobiographical poems of Hannah Senesh placing them in historical context. Each poem reflects a moment in the poet's life and a window to universal values such as freedom, tolerance, nondiscrimination, and peace. Hannah Senesh was born in Budapest, Hungary to writer Bela Szenes. She was quickly noticed for her extraordinary intelligence and literary talents. At age 16, Hannah was appointed president of the literary society of her school in Budapest. The Nazis denied this privilege because Hannah was a Jew. Hannah longed to leave Hungary to escape the Anti-Semitism and search for a better future and a place to express herself in freedom. In 1939, she left her native country to settle in the land of Israel. The songs "Ocean of Hope" portray her joy for life, her hopes and her dreams for a better world. Her poems also tell about the events that made Hannah decide to be part of a British Army commando unit of paratroopers becoming a hero in her attempt to fight for human freedom and for her people.	2	School Based	1,000	$1,000
